U. S. Court Refuses to Cite Talmadge as Witness

PHONE RATE CUT INJUNCTION PLEA HEARD BY JURISTS

Petition To Bar Rate Hike
Along With Motion To Cite Commission Members
for Contempt Taken Under Advisement.

DECISIONS LIKELY WITHIN FEW DAYS

Governor's Testimony
Would Not Be Material
to Cases at Issue, Three-Judge Tribunal Holds.

After refusing to cite Governor Eugene Talmadge as a witness in the cases, a three-judge federal court Thursday took under advisement application of 10 independent telephone companies for an injunction against a 17 per cent rate cut ordered in effect July 10 by the public service commission.

The court also took under advisement a motion of attorneys for the companies citing the five members of the commission for contempt of a previous injunction issued by the court which would aside a 25 per cent rate increase.

The judges also had under debate the contention of the public service commission that the federal courts, because of the recently enacted Johnson act, do not have jurisdiction in the case. Circuit Judge Samuel H. Sibley, who presided over Talmadge's hearing, said this question would be decided first.

Decision on the matters pending is not expected for several days. With Judge Sibley on the cases are District Judges William L. Grubb of Birmingham, and E. Marvin Underwood, of Atlanta.

Testimony Held Irrelevant.

In refusing the citation for the governor, who last week refused to accept a summons issued by the clerk of the court, Jon Dean Steward, Circuit Judge Sibley, speaking for the court, said it did not consider any testimony the court might give would be material to the case at issue. The telephone companies, though Attorney Marion Smith had hoped to get the chief executive into court to prove their contention that the commission is functioning under Governor Talmadge's orders, that before he appointed the members he made them pledge themselves to reduce rates and will remove them if they do not order reductions.

"Whether or not the governor made the commission members pledge themselves to reduce rates before he appointed them has no material bearing on the matter at issue," Judge Sibley said. "The commissioners, by their conduct of office, and criticism of new developments will say whether or not they are under duress. It is better to judge by their actions than by what an official over them may have said."

"As a matter of fact," Judge Sibley went on, "almost everyone who has been appointed to a political office promises to do something or other in order to obtain the appointment." It is a well-known fact that until the time of William and Mary all of the judges of England were appointed by the crown and subject to removal by the crown in the event their decisions were unsatisfactory. Yet the courts at that time functioned. There are enough courts in the country to see

'Considerate' Burglars
Return Victim's Horse

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 5.—(UP)—It's hard to be mad at burglars like these, even though they did steal $200 worth of groceries.

After breaking in James F. Tillery's store they loaded the groceries on his wagon, hitched up his horse and drove away.

Then either through a desire to give Tillery a break or an unwillingness to feed the horse, they drove back to Tillery's stall, un-hitched the horse and even hung the harness on the wall.

PARIS DENIES PART

Nazi Chief Will Slash
Power of Storm Troops;
'Fadeout' Is in Prospect
for Von Papen.

By the Associated Press.
Developments in Germany Thursday: The French embassy entered a vigorous denial that France was the "foreign power" accused of being involved in the anti-Hitler revolt.

A sharp protest against the accusation was placed by the French before the German government as a result of publication in Berlin of statements that former Chancellor Kurt Von Schleicher, one of those killed, has relations with France.

Nazi officials confirmed reports that the storm troopers—whose leaders planned the revolt—will be greatly reduced in number after their July vacation. To Retain Few.

Less than 20 per cent of the present 20,000 men will remain in the organization, it was predicted.

In Breslau it was revealed that storm troopers were ready to strike when Hitler smashed the uprising with firing squads.

The bodyguard—100 men—of Edmund Heines, executed Breslau storm troop and police chief, still under arrest.

The fate of Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen, conservative friend of President Von Hindenburg, remained in doubt.

Some sources said he would be reduced to a lower rank in the cabinet before he goes on leave of absence.

Home Again Raided.

Von Papen's home was raided again last night and his office was dismantled.

Deposits of disturbances and dissatisfaction were heard from various parts of the country, as were rumors of a new anti-Jewish movement.

Nazi leaders prepared for an important party congress at Plensberg.

A government spokesman reiterated that there will be no more executions of the people to "forget the troubles of our past."

The nation was cheered by the news that 86-year-old President Von Hindenburg was sufficiently well to meet the king and queen of Siam as they visited him at his estate at Neudeck, in East Prussia. The old war hero's amazing vitality was the center of attention when he was questioned by reporters from Vienna that he recently had undergone some sort of rejuvenation treatment. Little credence was given to the idea that the octogenarian might have had a glandular operation but some thought possible that he might have had some sort of injections.

Eighteen months ago, said Richberg, we were struggling to prevent the collapse of our financial and industrial system. Temporary work has been provided for as many as 4,000,000 people. Public projects of a more permanent character have furnished employment, and direct relief payments have given subsistence to millions more."

"Agricultural income has been enormously increased," he said. "Several hundred thousand homes have been saved from foreclosure. Temporary work has been provided for as many as 4,000,000 people. Public projects of a more permanent character have furnished employment, and direct relief payments have given subsistence to millions more."

Richberg devoted virtually his entire address to praise of Mr. Roosevelt and his policies and criticism of new and old critics. He contended there are only two alternatives to the recovery program, and they both were "alike destructive."

1 KILLED, 6 INJURED IN AMSTERDAM RIOT

AMSTERDAM, Holland, July 5.—(AP)—Fighting between police and a crowd of demonstrators and employes here today resulted in the killing of one man and the serious injury of at least six others.

The police charged into demonstrators, and fired on the crowd as the contestants fought back with bottles and stones. From behind a barricade a number of persons were slightly injured in addition to those seriously hurt.

Justice W. C. Ives, however, set aside the verdict which would have given the 29-year-old girl $10,000 and her father $5,000.

The Civil Liberties Protective Association has announced it will assist Miss MacMillan in an appeal from the judge's decision, which was based on his contention that Miss MacMillan did not prove actual damage.

Brownlee, who is 50 years old and has been active in Alberta politics for many years, was assessed $15,000 damages by a jury which heard the trial of a suit in which he was accused of seduction by Vivian MacMillan, former government stenographer.

Justice W. C. Ives, however, set aside the verdict which would have given the 29-year-old girl $10,000 and her father $5,000.

Traffic Survey Gathering Mass Of Details on Atlanta Drivers

Atlanta's traffic survey is distributing questionnaires among Atlanta drivers to find out how they feel about present rules and regulations. The organization has assembled a vast amount of valuable information since it began active operations in June, DeFord Smith, director, said Wednesday.

Field clerks have been stationed on streets to talk to drivers on passing cars, observe the drivers' attitude toward right and left turns and stop signals, and report the errors made.

Investigators are studying traffic law enforcement by the police and the laws themselves are under close scrutiny to find out whether or not amendments are needed.

A survey has been made of the most dangerous corners in Atlanta. Those showing the largest number of accidents in the past three years are Ponc de Leon and Piedmont avenues, Ponc de Leon and Boulevard, Marietta and Spring streets, Five Points, Spring and Mitchell streets, and Fair and Fraser streets.

Charts have been made of these corners and of the accidents occurring there, with reference to the positions of abutting buildings and to physical conditions. For instance, it was found that one corner of an intersection has had more accidents than the other three.

The survey also has shown that an alarming number of drivers drive at from 50 to 60 miles an hour in congested areas between frequent stop-signs. The field clerks are making detailed reports of speeding.

After this mass of data has been digested, it will be analyzed to determine and manual, and it is believed that the survey, after the four months' work is completed, will be in position to put forward constructive suggestions for traffic betterment.

There are 124 persons at work comprising senior and junior engineers, physicians, draftsmen, clerks, etc. Some of these are specialists in their lines.

The city has given the survey its office headquarters in Tech High school and the government is paying the salaries of the workers.

Georgia Bar Exams
Passed by 31 of 107

Only 31 students out of 107 that stood examinations for admittance to the bar in Georgia passed the tests, former Governor John M. Slaton, chairman of the bar examining board.

Examinations are given twice yearly, in June and December.

The applicants are examined by judges of the superior court circuits in which they reside and the results are submitted to the state board, which only numbers attached to the papers.

The state board, therefore, has no knowledge concerning the identity of those who pass, merely informing the respective judges of the number on the paper that is approved.

The examining board is composed of Mr. Slaton, who serves as chairman; Judge E. W. Maynard, of Macon, and Judge A. W. Cozart, of Columbus.

SUSPECT SURRENDERS
IN VIRGINIA SLAYING
LEESBURG, Va., July 5.—(AP)—Clarence Barnhouse, sought in connection with the death of Basil Brown, war veteran whose body was found in a ravine near here several days ago, today surrendered and was quoted by Commonwealth Attorney John Galleher as having admitted he killed Brown but claimed he acted in self-defense.

Galleher said Barnhouse denied robbery was the motive for the act, or that he had thrown the body into the ravine where it was found, and that he said no one else was involved in the killing.

Real Property Inventory Will Be Made Available by Federal Authorities

The Atlanta municipal housing authority has promised the real property inventory of Atlanta, which federal authorities made, it was announced Thursday by Raymond W. Torras, engineer-secretary of the city planning commission and secretary of the Georgia State Board of Education.

After this mass of data has been digested, it will be available to the public and to the field clerks, etc. Some of these are specialists in their lines.

The city has given the survey its office headquarters in Tech High school and the government is paying the salaries of the workers.

Author Is Jailed in Birmingham For Story on Judge Ab's Court

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 5.—(AP)—Lawson was released on bond of $300 after his attorney, C. B. Powell, had given his word that he would produce the playwright in court for trial.

Detective J. T. Moser said the charge was filed in connection with a story written by Lawson, in the Daily Worker, in which the court of Judge H. B. Abernathy was referred to as a "kangaroo court" and a "Jim Crow court."

The article concerned the trial of six negroes, miners, on charges growing out of the Alabama ore mine strike.

The arrest of Lawson came during his visit here in an effort to obtain certain privileges for defendants in

DUKE POWER PROTEST WINS FUND REVISION

South Carolina County To Change Application for PWA Loan.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—(AP)—Greenwood county, South Carolina, notified the PWA power review board it would revise its application for a $2,767,000 allotment to construct a municipal power plant.

Approval of the Greenwood allotment was protested by the Duke Power Co.

A change in the application, it was said at the review board office, will make necessary a schedule hearing at which representatives of the county were to answer the Duke objection.

Duke power officials and representatives of the municipality that Duke owns, which receives a major portion of its income from the company's earnings, appeared Monday before the review board to ask that it recommend revocation of the allotment.

Decision of the county to revise its application was conveyed to the board today by D. T. Duncan, engineer for the proposed hydro-electric plant on the Saluda river in South Carolina.

The modification contemplated was not learned.

One of the principal objections of the Duke company to approval was that more than 80 per cent of the power to be generated would be consumed by one textile manufacturer.

Officials of the Duke company charge this would represent a "governmental subsidy" to him.

Leaf Warehouse Code Gets Final Approval

WASHINGTON, July 5.—(AP)—Presidential approval of the code for the auction and loose leaf tobacco warehouse industry was announced today.

The code becomes effective July 9. The labor provisions, which are under similar attack in all sections of the country, the Catholic church of the archdiocese of Chicago next Sunday will launch a campaign against salacious and immoral motion pictures.

A meeting of all presidents of Archdiocesan Holy Name Societies will be held at the Catholic youth organization center tomorrow night. Arrangements will be made for drives to secure members of the Legion of Decency, the newly formed organization created for the purpose of advocating clean films.

Minimum wages are 22 1/2 cents an hour for unskilled common labor and $16 a week for clerical employees. The code prohibits a reduction in the weekly wage because of a reduction of working hours under code requirements.

The agricultural adjustment administration has supervision of the code's other provisions.

For many years Merita has been the favored bread in Southern homes. More Southern women use it than any other kind. You may be sure, then, that we considered very carefully the matter of making any change in it. But everything can be improved, even Merita, and that is just what we have done. Let your family decide the question. Serve them this new Merita Twist Loaf for a few days and see if they will ever be satisfied with anything else. And, of course, Merita costs no more than ordinary breads.

GOVERNMENT COST DROPS IN GEORGIA

Operation, Maintenance Cut From $7.29 to $6.60 Per Capita, U.S. Reveals

By FRANCIS LE MAY,
Associated Press Georgia Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—The cost of operation and maintenance of state governmental departments in Georgia was cut from $7.29 per capita in 1931 to $6.60 per capita in 1932, a report of the census bureau said today.

The bureau reported that the state spent $32,826,276 in 1932 on all state governmental costs, while revenue received during the year totaled $32,960,445.

All revenue collected amounted to $11.33 a person, the bureau found.

The per capita of property and special taxes was $2.11 compared with $2.85 in 1931, and in 1917.

The increase in the amount of property and special taxes collected the report showed, was 44.6 per cent from 1917 to 1932, but there was a decrease of 4.8 per cent from 1931 to 1932.

Payments for operation and maintenance of state governmental departments were only $19,212,490, or $8.60 per capita. This included $6,976,396 in appropriations for education to the minor civil divisions of the state. In 1931 the per capita for operation and maintenance of general departments

30th Wound by Snakes Suffered by Atlantan

W. L. McGill's life has been one snake bite after another. Since he added the 30th wound stripe, Mr. McGill, who lives at 504 Boulevard, N. E., was given antivenom serum treatment at Grady hospital Thursday afternoon when he reported that he had been bitten by a water moccasin while cutting grass at his home. He told hospital attendants that he had been bitten twice by snakes in the past two weeks, four times this year and about 30 times since his first bite.

was $7.29, and in 1917, $2.48.

$15,300,220 for Highways.

Of the total governmental costs in 1932, $15,500,220 was for highways and $12,876,815 for construction. The state debt amounted to $30,448, and outlays for permanent improvements $12,514,448.

The total of $32,826,276 included all payments for the year, whether made from current revenues or from the proceeds of bond issues.

Total revenue receipts were $378,507 more than the total payment exclusive of the expenditures for permanent improvements, and $134,189 more than the total payments, including those for permanent improvement. This excess of revenue receipts was reflected in purchase of inventories, not shown in the budget review.

Property and special taxes represented 23.9 per cent of the total revenue for 1932, 20.5 per cent for 1931 and 68.8 per cent for 1917.

Earnings of general departments, or state services, were reflected 4.5 per cent of the total revenue in 1932, 4.2 per cent for 1931 and 9.2 per cent for 1917.

Business license receipts, from business licenses consisted chiefly of taxes exacted from insurance and other incorporated companies, the occupation tax, cigar and cigarette tax and sales tax on gasoline while motor vehicle and non-business licenses comprised chiefly taxes on motor vehicles and amounts paid for hunting and fishing privileges.

The sales tax on gasoline amounted to $10,063,887 in 1932 and $11,126,440 in 1931, a decrease of 9.5 per cent.

THREE MEALS A DAY KITCHEN TESTED RECIPES by Sally Saver

By JOSEPHINE GIBSON.

A wise woman of our acquaintance has a long established gracious hot weather custom. Her husband frequently comes home from work a short time before the whole family can be gathered together for dinner. But hot and tired though he is, he hurries home to the kitchen of his wife. Always his favorite soft chair is waiting for him in the coolest spot in the house. Beside the chair on a low table is a tall sparkling glass filled with a refreshing new drink cooled by tinkling ice cubes. Every evening before the varied selection of a sprig of aromatic mint and a slice of sharp lemon. These drinks run the whole gamut of variety and culinary invention during the summer season.

FRANCE PROTESTS GERMAN CHARGES

HITLER WILL SLASH RANKS OF STORM TROOPERS ON "VACATION."

cellor Hitler's government which was broken up by the week-end executions.

The denial was so formal that it was made to the German government after the Nazi press had accused the late General Kurt Von Schleicher of having dealings with France.

The killing of Von Schleicher, who in 1932 was chancellor for 55 days, was justified, the newspapers insisted, on the basis of "the heinous crime of entering into negotiations with France, thereby giving the idea to Paris that the Nazi system is not going to last."

Absurd Fable.

French Ambassador Andre Francois-Poncet branded the charge an "absurd fable" and protested strongly against the "great prominence" given to the story in German newspapers.

The ambassador was said by French sources to have been promised when he called at Wilhelmstrasse yesterday that the German press would not be permitted to drag France into the matter.

Hitler had accused some of the plotters of negotiating with a "foreign power" and there was much speculation as to what country was meant.

The German newspapers' story accused Von Schleicher, one of those executors by Hitler, of men of having dealings with France while he was chancellor in 1932.

French Foreign Minister Louis Barthou was accused of revealing the Von Schleicher plot to the British at Geneva May 30.

"Hitler's days are numbered," Barthou was reported as saying.

Other Calamity.

In addition to the French envoy, the American and British ambassadors have called at the foreign office.

The French ambassador's statement, French sources said, was made doubly emphatic because he learned his name had been mentioned since Von Schleicher was killed.

The two men were understood to have dined together within the last few months, and this point was emphasized in some circles.

The embassy explained that the dining had no significance as Francois-Poncet has many friends among influential Germans with whom he dines frequently.

Killing Ended.

A government spokesman, in the midst of disturbing rumors, reiterated and emphasized that summary executions are ended and showed the clear desire of the government to have the public forget Hitler's ruthless methods.

"Everybody is tired," one official said. "We want to forget about the past and continue our constructive work for the future."

"All who figured in the weekend drama from the chancellor down, are satisfied that the vacation month (July) shall really be one of family life and recuperation."

"Whatever further consequences the treachery of a few leaders may draw in its wake can well be left for August and later."

These officials confirmed reports that after the July vacation the ranks of storm troopers' German life will be greatly changed, indicating less than 20 per cent of the men will be retained.

Estimates heretofore have been that 80 per cent of the troopers would be retained.

Other Troubles.

to Miss Daisy Hilton. " Didn't you ever hear," she was asked, "that there's three of a crowd?" Miss Daisy beat Miss Violet to the punch.

"We had visitors again last night," she said. After glancing up and down the street. "Not even the kitchen was spared."

"We would like a different scratch from the one now provided before our house. Of what good is a watch if it lets persons through?" She hurried on after indicating she would say nothing further.

Killing Ended.

A government spokesman, in the midst of disturbing rumors, reiterated and emphasized that summary executions are ended and showed the clear desire of the government to have the public forget Hitler's ruthless methods.

"Everybody is tired," one official said. "We want to forget about the past and continue our constructive work for the future."

"All who figured in the weekend drama from the chancellor down, are satisfied that the vacation month (July) shall really be one of family life and recuperation."

"Whatever further consequences the treachery of a few leaders may draw in its wake can well be left for August and later."

These officials confirmed reports that after the July vacation the ranks of storm troopers' German life will be greatly changed, indicating less than 20 per cent of the men will be retained.

Estimates heretofore have been that 80 per cent of the troopers would be retained.

Leader Passes Away

94-Year-Old Atlantan Was Personal Friend of General Robert E. Lee.

The thinning gray ranks of the soldiers of the Confederacy Thursday suffered another deprivation in the death at his home of William T. Eubanks, 94-year-old personal friend of General Robert E. Lee.

Mr. Eubanks, a Primitive Baptist preacher until blindness caused him to abandon active ministry more than 40 years ago, had been in bad health for more than a year. His death Thursday morning was not unexpected. He died at the home of his granddaughter, Mrs. J. B. Kerr, 111 Columbia Drive, Decatur.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Lena Wrinkle, of Atlanta; 12 grandchildren, Mrs. J. C. Allgood, Birmingham; Mrs. Z. A. Huff, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Mrs. Ben Smith, Cedar Park; Mrs. Oliver Stork, and Mrs. R. J. Williams, Atlanta; T. H. Eubanks, and Hiram Lee Eubanks, Atlanta; B. E. Wrinkle, Hollywood, Calif.; E. O. L. and C. A. Wrinkle, and 18 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon from the New Harmony Primitive Baptist church, Hiram, Ga., and burial will be in the family plot in the churchyard. H. M. Patterson & Son is in charge of arrangements.

NORTH CAROLINA READY TO GIVE THEM LICENSE

CHARLOTTE, N. C., July 5.—(AP) If Violet and Daisy Hilton fail to get married in their native home, they might try in North Carolina, as did Chang Bunker, the "original Siamese twins," who settled in this state, married and reared families nearly a century ago.

Martin, of the register of deeds office, said today he knew of no reason why a license would be denied Violet or Daisy or both if application was made here.

"So far as I know there is no legal barriers in their way here," he said. "If they walked into the office I think I'd give them one—two—one, whichever they wanted."

The twins, who are 26, red-headed and attractive, left Newark home, declaring they will go to Maryland to try to get Miss Violet a license in Elkton.

Their lawyers added that he is likely to bring a mandamus action against New York city authorities and demand that the marriage be allowed.

All who figured in the weekend drama from the chancellor down, are satisfied that the vacation month (July) shall really be one of family life and recuperation.

South Carolina Farmer Seeking To Perfect 5-Lock Boll of Cotton

SUMTER, S. C., July 5.—(AP)—Dixie's cotton is blooming but while other farmers are curtailing their crops C. G. Rowland is attempting to perfect a super cotton that will produce more and better lint under more work.

He is working for a pure strain five-lock boll and says he has evolved the type so far to 85-90 per cent perfect; if his yield is approximately 23 per cent more lint than the conventional four-lock under identical conditions.

While five-lock bolls are not uncommon, depending on soil and moisture conditions—the United States agriculture department knows of no true five-lock variety and this is Rowland's aim.

Last year Rowland planted the cotton and found he had 85.52 per cent seed. His eight acres of four-lock (he had plowed up 30 acres) yielded 10,010 pounds of seed. He said the lint yield of the five-lock and also the four-lock was 33.24 per cent, "both being somewhat over one-third of the seed cotton."

But to give his four-lock the edge, he has planted it on "a little better land and ten days earlier" than the five-lock.

The agriculture department reports five-lock bolls occur extensively in Texas and Oklahoma and also throughout the eastern part of the cotton belt, with upland cotton producing a high percentage of five-lock when conditions are favorable and single plants producing four and five-lock bolls simultaneously.

This condition Rowland noticed in 1927 when he picked his first five-lock seed. Since then he has culled his crop carefully.

He says the five-lock bolls are larger and fluffier than the four-lock and that in time he hopes his five-lock may replace entirely the conventional boll now prevalent in Dixie.

tion, to achieve economic order by denying to ourselves and to our posterity the blessings of liberty—to gain the material comforts of a machine-made civilization by the universal sacrifice of individual freedom for which men and women have been fighting and suffering and dying throughout counted centuries."

Kicks on Friday, 13th.

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 5.—(AP)—Earl Jones, 24, alias Earl Ford, was to have been given a preliminary hearing in police court this morning to charge him with the murder of Ben Anderson, both colored. Counsel set for a continuance and the court adjourned.

A. F. Liebman, his brother, who died 10 years ago, represented W. T. Healey during his life, and had general supervision of the plans of the Healey building, for which they were responsible.

Represented Healey Estate.

This connection was continued after A. F. Liebman's death, the firm representing the Healey estate, Milton Liebman, had general direction of the construction of the William-Oliver Building, and with the Healey building, and through his connection with the Healey estate, he managed until his death.

Attack. Counter-Attack.

The hill was besieged repeatedly, with the strikers maintaining possession of the knoll temporarily and then retreating in wild confusion when police stormed up the wooded slope.

Possession of the hill changed hands a dozen times as the police shot tear gas bombs into the ranks of the cursing pickets and then opened up point blank with blasts from their riot guns.

One striker, blinded by tear gas, stumbled against a mounted officer, who struck him across the head, felling him, and then rode into a swirling mob of strikers.

Extra long clubs were issued to the police by Chief William J. Quinn, who personally directed his men in efforts to restore order on the riotous scene.

From Rion Hill the riot swept toward the Ferry building, where a crowd of curios spectators had gathered, as though they were witnessing a circus.

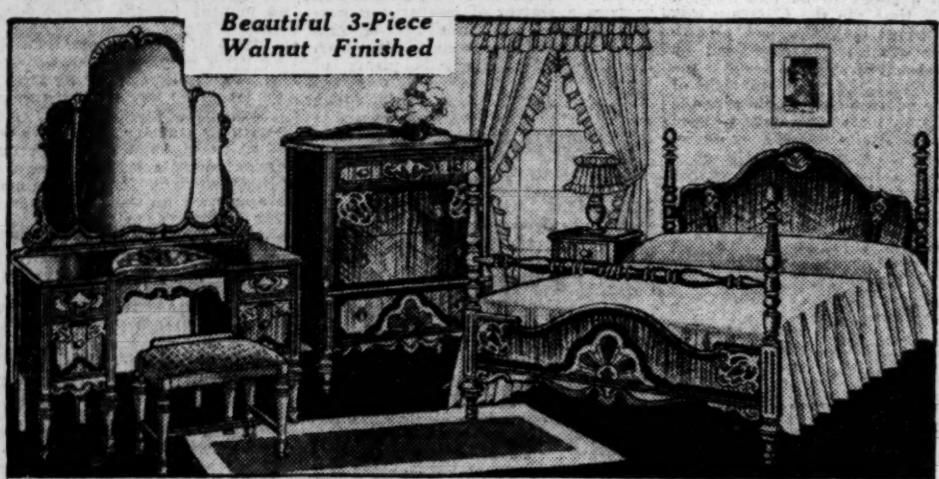

Spectators Gassed.

Police, already with their hands full in attempting to quell the numerous riots, endeavored unsuccessfully to attract the spectators to flee from the scene.

Tear bombs drove many of the spectators away and several bystanders fell victims to wild shots.

Key West To Try Comeback As Resort Center With U.S. Aid

KEY WEST, Fla., July 5.—(AP)—This southernmost city in the United States tonight was in the hands of a receiver who hoped to overcome years of misfortune and make it a second Bodie by reviving a lifeless tourist trade and pumping fresh blood into its stricken veins.

Julius F. Stone Jr., state federal emergency relief administrator, today notified Governor Sholtz he would take over the affairs of the stranded city and county and attempt to bring back the prosperity it once enjoyed.

Stone, who requested Stone to act after city and county officials faced with a seemingly hopeless economic condition because of a shift of trade, called upon the state and federal governments, for a new deal.

Once the largest city in Florida, the town, situated on a tiny island only 90 miles from Havana, Cuba, has lost its industries and tourists.

The cigar industry moved to Ybor City, the sponge fishery went to Tarpon Springs, the naval base was closed with loss of half of a million dollars in trade annually, the coast guard personnel was reduced, the air lines, which ignored Key West, flew overhead with most of the passenger traffic and the New Orleans-Havana sea trials were discontinued.

Originally born of the sea, the town was first settled by people who came off the island. Stone quickly offered them a chance at home in favor of sending them to Tampa, Miami, or other cities where he said they still would be on relief rolls and in addition surrounded by aliens, facing new social problems.

The answer, the administrator believes, is to capitalize on the charm and entice tourists to beat a path to its door.

Key West's population is largely made up of people of Latin origin who came here from Cuba many of them to escape political conditions in that country. It is perched on a small coral island 155 miles south of Miami and in appearance and atmosphere is an Old-World city.

A single railroad line that stretches key to key between here and the mainland provides the only means of travel for land-going vehicles.

Trade here once was flourishing.

TIME TO CALL A HALT!

What is the matter with Columbia University?

It seems to have become a hotbed for the germination of reprehensible doctrines, visionary theories and freakism of every variety.

From conferences held under sponsorship of some division of Columbia, lectures and papers of some of her professors, and deductions evolved by some of their theorists, have come attacks on religion, established government and plain morality; and advocacy of communism, atheism, questionable economic theories and doctrines subversive of the public good.

Rated as one of the greatest educational institutions of the nation, and with ample funds with which to employ the foremost instructors, it is small wonder that professors in colleges and smaller universities have to some extent emulated the example of Columbia, and departed from established standards of college procedure to invade the field of unrestrained liberalism.

It is unthinkable that the fallacious ideas that have come out of Columbia during the past few years can in any way represent the beliefs of its eminent head, Dr. William Murray Butler, and when he returns from Europe and learns the details of the most recent conference held under the auspices of Columbia, he may decide that it is time to call a halt.

As wild as have been some of the things that have emanated from Columbia, this last one is the worst, and is of such a character as to forbid publication in detail.

Someone connected with Columbia sponsored a conference on "love and marriage." It was held in the Teachers' College department and was presided over by Professor Paul Popene, who stated that the question was: "Should young people have relations that are furtive and ashamed, or open and frank?"

Dr. Lester W. Dearborn, of Boston, president of the Massachusetts Society for Social Hygiene, started a free discussion of the subject by stating: "If my son or daughter came to me to ask advice, I would not advise them against pre-marital relations."

Some men and women attending the conference protested, but others indorsed it with expressions of their own, in comparison with which the startling statement of Dr.
Dearborn was comparatively mild.

It showed that a large part of the professors present approved the abominable theory advanced by this Boston freak, who quoted Dr. R.
L. Dickinson, president of the Maternal Health Association, as saying that pre-marital relations "do not hurt marriage," and as having presented conclusions from a national survey which showed that in 1934
"every other young person, man or woman, is not bothering to wait for marriage."

It is time to call a halt, at Columbia or elsewhere, in the promulgation of such nefarious statements, which are all the worse when given the indirect approval of emanating from Columbia.

The world is bad enough, but promotion of the doctrine of free love set forth by this so-called intelligentsia coterie will serve to make it worse.

The relations between young men and women need not be so strictly mid-Victorian as formerly, for the age demands a certain degree of liberty; but that liberty must not be stretched to the lecherous license advocated by these baty freaks.

Dr. Butler should close the doors of Columbia to such gatherings. It has become the great American freak nest.

Communists are endeavoring to paint many a town red.

Take a lobster to the cafe with you, advises the Thomasville Times.

Enterprise. Yes, and see if you can wish the check off on him.

The man who says he would like to live his childhood over evidently forgets about the bumper spinach crop.

COUNCILMAN CURTIS RESIGNS.

Councilman J. Raymond Curtis, who has represented the tenth ward in Atlanta council for nearly four years, has tendered his resignation to take effect at the close of business on July 16.

In tendering his resignation Councilman Curtis gave two very good reasons for leaving the body
in which he has served so efficiently.
The first was that he has purchased a home that is not located in the tenth ward, and the second was that his private business made such demands upon him that he would not be able to spare the time required for attending to city business.

He is chairman of the Atlanta board of fireasters, vice chairman of the finance committee and vice chairman of the police committee, which constitute three of the most important bodies of council.

Councilman Curtis has been one of the most progressive and influential members of council during his tenure in office. He has been in thorough concord with the economy policies of the administration, and has judiciously merged progressiveness with conservatism to an extent that has won him the confidence of every element of the city administration.

The city needs more men like him in council.

VACATION READING.

Amateur psychologists regret that the navy department and not President Franklin D. Roosevelt selected the library for his vacation tour aboard the Houston.

They wanted to know just what the president of the United States had selected for his vacation reading. The list, as announced by the navy department, contained several detective novels, several volumes of serious works and many books on the sea.

The navy is sure he will read the navy books. But if the president is like the average American,
and he is, he will do little reading on his vacation.

The average American looks forward to his vacation as a time when he will "catch up" on his reading. He invariably carries many light and heavy tomes with him.
The schedule is to rest, sleep and read. Arriving at his vacation spot the average American does much sleeping, much resting, but little reading. He may glance at a book for a moment or so. Indeed, he may read one. But there is always tomorrow. And at the end of the vacation the average American packs up his books and goes regretfully back to work. Next year, for sure, he will "catch up" on his reading.

The president will very likely do better than most of us. He reads a great deal. But the average American, looking at the list, will be sure the president will not read many pages of "International Law"
(2 vols.) or "The Practical Book of Oriental Rugs." Somehow those two don't seem to lend themselves to vacation reading.

ILL DUCE SAYS: "HOW COME?"

It is evident that Max Baer's defeat of Primo Carnera in their recent battle on Long Island is not popular in Italy, where the big footed ex-champion was born.
And it is also evident the il duce is under the impression that there was something phoney about the decision, and when the dictator of Italy is disposed, he does something about it.

The bear and some other animals eat to acquire a good store of fat to live in while hibernating. We can only conjecture whether primitive man had to store fat in his body, so that every little drink spares that much fat which you might otherwise
use up to furnish the energy or heat
required in your daily life. Then, too,
under the mellowing influence of slight intoxication you are likely to consume
a greater excess of food than you would in your right mind. Restau-rators know this true in this but they don't care.

Many younger people eat as a pastime, just as some braindead chew gum or smoke. It is "something to do" and it is natural to do it, the substitutes for such chewing gum or cigarette-smoking among the moron class. But alcohol in any form, high-ball, cocktail, wine or beer is delusive for one who desires to get fat, because such beverages fill you up but do not yield the calories. On the other hand alcohol beverages are delusive for those who are too fat, because with a little fat you can eat more readily than does fat in the body, so that every little drink spares that
much fat which you might otherwise
use up to furnish the energy or heat
required in your daily life. Then, too,
under the mellowing influence of slight
intoxication you are likely to consume
a greater excess of food than you
would in your right mind. Restau-
rators know this true in this but
they don't care.

Before taking stern measures to have the decision set aside, he sent Count Francesco Campobello to make some discreet inquiries.

And so the genial count, who is a representative of the Italian Boxing Federation, is interviewing prominent sports experts and viewing pictures of the encounter which resulted in Da Preem blowing the title.

The count's report will no doubt be disappointing: the pictures will inform it due that the big Italian may be strong enough to substitute for a switch engine, but as a fighter he is not much more than a punching bag.

The count has intimated that Italian sportsmen would like to stage a return bout between the two in Rome.

Perhaps it is just as well that Hitler is so busily engaged in wrecking Germany; otherwise he might send Goering over here to ascertain if Max Schmeling received his just dues.

If there is one thing that can restore the pleasure to eating, the more enjoyment of the food itself and not the flavor or the drinks calculated to keep you from noticing how bad the food is, it would be inflexible adherence to the rule never to eat unless you are really hungry.

Warning!

The Daily Herald published a sensational dispatch the other day in which it was stated that the Nazi authority was plotting a fake attempt on the life of Herr Hitler to divert attention from the catastrophic economic situation in Germany. This attempted murder, for which a Jew or a communist, is to get the blame, will follow the coup d'etat, which will be followed by a terrible blood-bath on Jews and all communists.

For a month an unheard-of terror would rage through all Germany and the people would talk of nothing else, as well they might, thus forgetting for the moment their own great plight.
This attempt to get rid of Hitler is not likely to succeed, however,
but the effects will all be political and not physiological.

FLARE-UP

To get the background, you have to go back a few months when Senator Smith was hiding the Tugwell nomination in his pocket. You may recall he kept it hidden there until the White House offered a suggestion that two and perhaps three Smith men be named to important federal positions. Then and not until then did the Tugwell nomination get through the senate.

There is one that will stay you. In fact, the inside story about it had to be held back a few days to see if it did stay Senator (Cotton Ed) Smith, of South Carolina.

Latest reports from his cotton plantation, however, are to the effect that the senator suffered only a major stroke of chagrin, and not of apoplexy as was feared. He will probably never recover, but the effects will all be political and not physiological.

JOKE

WASHINGTON, July 5.—President Roosevelt has a streak of the practical joker in him. He has been known to plot little tricks on his secretaries. He has disguised his voice for playful impersonations over the telephone. He has even laughed at himself when Louis Howe worked the fake match trick on him with safety matches so safe they would not light.

But the greatest practical joke of his entire career was the appointment a few days ago of Claud N. Sapp as federal attorney for eastern South Carolina.

GEORGIA MINERALS MAKE FINE OYSTERS FLORIDAN REPORTS

APALACHICOLA, Fla., July 5.—(UPI)—Oysters from the Apalachicola river are the finest in the world, said J. T. Blacklock, president of the Apalachicola oyster farmers, revealed today.

"The Chattahoochee river drains the entire length of Georgia," Blacklock explained, "and joins the Flint river to form the Apalachicola river, extending into Florida. All of the management, iron and copper from the Chattahoochee drains into Apalachicola bay. This is the mineral content that make oysters invaluable for building red blood, and the St. Vincent and St. George oysters off the coast keep this food from draining away."

PAY RESTORATIONS VETOED BY MAYOR

City Must Stay Within Income, Says Key, in Explaining Action.

Atlanta's credit must be preserved and the city must live within its income, Mayor James L. Key asserted Thursday in vetoing basic pay restorations for about 500 municipal employees at a cost of about $17,000 from August 1, the effective date until the end of the year.

At the same time, the mayor expressed sympathy with city workers, and held out the hope that all basic reductions and pay slashes may be restored within the next year. He was impelled to make the statement because of general improved revenue collections and the general upward trend in business.

Key said he will sanction a partial restoration of basic salaries for 274 employees and calling for an outlay of $8,425 for the remainder of the year as approved Tuesday night by a special subcommittee of the finance committee. The measure along with several other restorations is expected to reach council at its meeting July 16.

Key Sympathetic.

Agitation to replace some of the cuts in salaries has been made for the past several months, and Key generally has been sympathetic, but he has insisted that collections come up to anticipations and has discouraged any hasty reinstatements because of the strained fiscal conditions of the municipal treasury.

Although the mayor had not written a veto message to accompany the two vetoes he signed Thursday, he asserted that the credit of the city must be maintained at all hazards.

"We are not depending on the credit of the city in attempting to restore basic salaries or in adjusting salary payments or for any other purpose," Key said. "Atlanta's good credit rating has stood the city in good stead during the trying times through which the city has and still is passing. Nothing must be done to impair that standing."

"I have vetoed the outlays as provided in the new salary reinstatement measure, because I do not see where the money is to come from."

"It is my sincere hope that on January 1, we can reduce the 10 per cent cut (now imposed on all non-school employees making more than $100 a month) to 5 per cent, and that within the next year we can eliminate all cuts."

"That would mean that employees would be restored to the basic salary they had before any cuts were made in December, 1931 (the date on which basic salary slashes became effective.)"

A check of the latest proposed salary reinstatement, which Key Thursday vetoed, called for an outlay of about $17,000, according to B. Graham West, city controller.

Confers With Milam.

Key held a conference Thursday morning with Councilman Aubrey Milam, chairman of the subcommittee of the finance committee, working on the salary matter.

Milam said the committee would resume its deliberations at a meeting to be held next Tuesday night at the city hall.

Administration leaders do not feel that the city can make any reinstatement adjustments which will exceed $10,000 for the year.

The Milam committee thus far has considered only low paid labor outside the city hall, and no recommendations have been made which will push the actual monthly payments in excess of $100. City hall employees will be considered at Tuesday night's meeting.

In addition to vetoing the blanket salary reinstatement, Key vetoed another council resolution to increase the salary of Dewey Johnson, superintendent of electrical affairs from $250 a month to $350. He said he would sanction a $50 monthly hike for Johnson in recognition of his "splendid service" to the people of Atlanta. Johnson has succeeded in obtaining a municipal light bill cut amounting to about $7,000 for the remainder of the year, and the new schedule will save about $14,000 next year.

Atlantans Attacked Near Police Station

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Butner, of 572 Parkway Drive, were attacked in front of the police station and their home late Thursday afternoon after having gone to recorder's court to appear as witnesses against Jerry Barnhill, a Hardee street address, charged with attacking Mrs. Butner on Peachtree street Wednesday.

The case was adjourned, however, until next Tuesday and as Mr. and Mrs. Butner reached the sidewalk in front of police station, the attack occurred. They received treatment at Grady hospital. Both were cut about the face. Police expressed the opinion that brass knucks were used.

As a result of the second alteration the Barnhill woman companion, Carl Smith, 37, of a downtown hotel, was placed under arrest and charged with disorderly conduct and stabbing.

2 MIAMIAN ACCUSED IN POLITICAL ASSAULT

Primary Law Violation Laid to State's Attorney and News Executive.

MIAMI, Fla., July 5.—(AP)—State's Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne and Dan J. Mahoney, general manager of the Daily News, are charged with violation of the primary election law in informations filed today in criminal court.

The Florida primary law prohibits circulating charges against a candidate within 18 days of the primary without delivering them to the office-seeker. Hawthorne is charged in the information with making a speech in violation of the law and the newspaper executive is charged with reproducing it three days before the primary without serving the candidate with a copy.

The information was issued by County Solicitor Fred W. Pine on the complaint of affidavit of S. Pierre Robineau, who was recently renominated to the state legislature.

It charged the Hawthorne speech, allegedly attacking the record of the legislator, was made four days before the primary.

Hawthorne, who several months ago was awarded the gold medal of the United States' Flag Association for outstanding law enforcement in Florida, and Mahoney, formerly of Dayton, Ohio, had not been served with the capias tonight.

Criminal Court Judge E. C. Collins fixed bond for each at $500. The offense charged is a misdemeanor and carries a maximum penalty upon conviction of a $1,000 fine or one year in jail, or both.

AND UP, F. O. B. FLINT, MICHIGAN

When Chevrolet announced price reductions several weeks ago, something important happened . . . something of vital concern to every buyer of a low-priced car: Chevrolet stepped into the most favorable price position it has enjoyed in a long time!

Reductions amounting to as much as $50—the most substantial price cuts announced in the low-price field this year—dropped Chevrolet's base price to a new low figure of $465. Just compare this price—compare any Chevrolet price—with those of other cars. Then compare what you get for what you pay! There'll be no question in your mind which car to buy, once you do.

Chevrolet offers patented Knee-Action—and others do not! Chevrolet alone has a Fisher body! And the same thing applies to cable-controlled brakes, Y-K frame, shock-proof steering, and 80-horsepower, valve-in-head six-cylinder engine. Chevrolet gives you far more features—for finer quality—a far better name for dependability. Yet the price of the Chevrolet Standard is lower than that of any other six or, of course, any eight in the world.

INDIANAN IS CHOSEN PRESIDENT OF N. E. A.

Georgian Loses to Ohio School Head for Treasurer's Post.

WASHINGTON. July 5.—(AP)—Dr. Henry Lester Smith, dean of the school of education at the University of Indiana, Bloomington, tonight was elected president of the National Education Association over three other candidates. Test election, R. E. Offenbauer, superintendent of schools at Lima, Ohio, was chosen treasurer. George W. Wanamaker, of Griffin, Ga., was a candidate for this office.

Eleven vice presidents were elected without opposition. These included three incumbents: Annie S. Doremus, Parsons; J. Ernest W. Butterfield, Hartford, Conn., and Carlisle W. Woodruff, Castleton, Vt.

Others elected were L. Fraser Banks, Birmingham, Ala.; Harry H. Gordon, Kansas City, Mo.; C. K. Reiff, Oklahoma City, Okla.; Rae Kemp, Kansas City, Kan.; C. A. Rice, Portland, Ore.; Charles Carroll, Indianapolis; R. L. W. Nixon, Tacoma, Wash.; S. C. and Charles E. Hulten, Sheboygan, Wis.

Teachers of strange and radical doctrines of government were assailed tonight by Edward A. Hayes, of Indianapolis, national commander of the American Legion, in an address to the association. He said advocates of communism were throwing "a smoke screen of peace propaganda" around their activities.

"Educators who cling to the patriotism of the founders of our republic, and who cast out the strange tenets of radical groups that are subversive to our system of government, form the backbone of our future Americanism," Hayes declared.

He said Winifred L. Chappell, secretary of the Methodist Federation of Social Service and author of a recent Epworth League article suggesting sabotage of munitions, was listed in the "red network" directory kept at national headquarters of the Legion.

The Legion schools are the only objective of attack for this subversive movement," Hayes contended. "They are creeping into our churches, too."

Students in land grant schools who refuse to take military training were described as "embracing the principle of anarchy."

Culbertson on Contract With Kitchen Knife

CHICAGO. July 5.—(AP)—With a kitchen knife and piece of rubber hose, Dr. Matheson performed an emergency throat operation which he credited with saving the life of 8-year-old Eileen Berg. He received an early morning call yesterday from the child's father who cried that his little girl was strangling to death.

Not wishing to waste time to get his instruments from his office, Dr. Matheson rushed to his patient to find her unconscious and her throat swelling to the degree that within a few minutes breathing would have been impossible.

He sterilized a kitchen knife, cut off a piece of rubber hose, and after a hasty incision, inserted the tube through which the child drew life-giving air.

Bridge in Scandinavia.
Outside of the United States and Great Britain there is probably no place on the globe where there is so much interest in bridge as in the Scandinavian countries, Norway, Sweden and Denmark. So keen is interest there that one of the leading newspapers annually conducts a tournament, at which attendance in the finals far out-distances all records made by American桥手 in this field.

The Scandinavian people, profiting perhaps from their long winter nights, specialize in the deeper problems both of bidding and play.

Recently a nation-wide problem-solving competition was conducted in Norway, and first prize was given to Mr. Gustav Devold, whose entry was the following:

♦ 10 6 4
♦ 7 6 3
♦ A 10 2
♦ 8 6 5 4
A 9 3 2 N K J 7
♦ 5 4
♦ K 9 7 W E S
♦ 6 4
♦ A 7
♦ Q 8 5
♦ K 9 2
♦ Q 3
♦ K Q 9 3 2

In double-dummy problems the question of bidding is immaterial. A certain contract is assumed, and the question is how the declarer can defend the defense can take a certain number of tricks.

In the hand above hearts are trump with East as declarer. South is the leader and North and South are required to win four tricks against any line of play followed by the holders of the East and West hands.

A study of the hand shows three tricks are practically certain—one trick in clubs, one in trumps and one in diamonds. The means by which the fourth trick can be attained is not so apparent. In the following solution the line of play followed by East is assumed. The possible variations are left to the reader's imagination.

The opening lead is the club king, which is taken by the act in dummy, and the return is a small spade, which East wins with the king. East now leads the diamond six and finesses the jack in dummy, which North allows to hold; and the next lead, the diamond king, drops South's queen and is taken by North's ace. South is given an opportunity to remove the diamond six and removes the heart ten. Then East ruffs a small diamond with the heart ten, South discarding a spade. And when East returns the heart queen, South wins with the spade queen and the returns the spade queen, removing the entry in dummy for the diamond six. Now, no matter what play is made, South can cash his heart nine.

It will be observed that a trump lead at the beginning will serve no useful purpose in holding the defending side to three tricks as the diamonds must win one spade trick. The hand presents many interesting problems.

Friendly Counsel By CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence carried in this column is held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: At the age of 18, I am a miserable, worried girl who has no thrill in living for me. As far as I married a selfish man of 22 who never regarded my personal feeling as important. After four months of mental anguish I came back to my parents. Although I am almost free I am not happy over it. Conditions at home will not change, so I must remain at home. My step-father doesn't deserve my being here and I haven't been able to find work. Two men are coming to see me and each of them wishes to marry me. I have no heart throb in connection with either. I actually can't choose between them, as far as my feeling is concerned. What troubles me is that they are about evenly matched in financial means and in disposition. I am getting more miserable every day and feel that I must take some definite step. Perhaps you can advise me.

EX-WIFE.

Answer:

Dear Child, you haven't learned the first primer lesson in life and you can never be happy or contented until you do: namely, that contentment or happiness or whatever you want to call it, is never found by the person who selfishly considers himself first.

The idea has been expressed myriad times, in myriad ways but perhaps the best and most succinct is that the statement made by a great humanitarian who knew the human heart in all of its aspects: "He that would save his life must lose it."

You have not saved yours because you have selfishly ignored everybody but yourself. You married a man and left him because he didn't consider your feelings. Did you consider his?

You went back to live with your parents, knowing that your step-father didn't want you. Did you consider his?

You are doing the same for both suitors.

A meal ticket, a roof and a name are the three things you want; the rest can go hang.

The ex-husband offers you a home,

but you have selfishly ignored everybody but yourself.

You married a man and left him,

because he didn't consider your feelings.

Now, if you are going to marry again,

you must do it for love, not for money.

It's a good idea to marry again,

but you must do it for love, not for money.

It's a good idea to marry again,

but you must do it for love, not for money.

It's a good idea to marry again,

but you must do it for love, not for money.

It's a good idea to marry again,

but you must do it for love, not for money.

It's a good idea to marry again,

but you must do it for love, not for money.

It's a good idea to marry again,

but you must do it for love, not for money.

It's a good idea to marry again,

but you must do it for love, not for money.

It's a good idea to marry again,

but you must do it for love, not for money.

It's a good idea to marry again,

but you must do it for love, not for money.

It's a good idea to marry again,

but you must do it for love, not for money.

It's a good idea to marry again,

but you must do it for love, not for money.

It's a good idea to marry again,

but you must do it for love, not for money.

It's a good idea to marry again,

but you must do it for love, not for money.

It's a good idea to marry again,

but you must do it for love, not for money.

It's a good idea to marry again,

but you must do it for love, not for money.

It's a good idea to marry again,

but you must do it for love, not for money.

It's a good idea to marry again,

but you must do it for love, not for money.

It's a good idea to marry again,

but you must do it for love, not for money.

It's a good idea to marry again,

but you must do it for love, not for money.

MEDICA LEADS A.A.U. SWIMMERS

CHICAGO, July 5.—(AP) Jack Medica, sensational young star from the Washington A. C., Scotch, Wash., and Ralph Flanagan, of the Miami (Fla.) Beach Club, warmed up for their duel in the National A. A. U. swimming championship, men's mile race tomorrow by easily dominating the qualifying trials in the World Fair lagoon today.

Medica, regarded as the greatest of American distance swimmers, won the opening heat of the mile, the only preliminary event on today's program, without extending himself, but was only 16 seconds over Arne Borg's world record. He loafed in 100 yards ahead of Herb Barthels, of the Los Angeles A. C., in 1:00.2, and 200 yards. The time also was about 10 seconds slower than Flanagan's American standard.

Flanagan led the second group home in 23:10.8, and had a margin of more than 27 yards over Bob Boals, another Los Angeles A. C. representative. The Florida star appeared to be taking things even easier than Medica had in the first heat.

The other four qualifiers, selected on comparative times basis, and their marks were: Barthels, 22:43.8; Boals, 23:20.8; Donald Woodward, Columbus, Ohio, competitive, unattached, 23:25.6; and Donald Goulding, Detroit A. C., 23:29.6.

Women's Net Entry Will Close August 4

NEW YORK, July 5.—(AP) The United States Lawn Tennis Association today sent out a call for entries for the forty-seventh annual national women's championships, to be played at the West Side Tennis Club, Forest Hills, L. I., August 13-18. The lists close August 4 with the draw four days later.

The committee in charge, headed by Franklin H. Devitt, of New York, said the entry list would be limited to 64, as usual, and "playing records being equal, preference will be given to younger players in consideration of such entries."

Helen Hull Jacobs, now competing at Wimbledon, will be back to defend her title and it is hoped several foreign women will also take part.

If no foreign entries are forthcoming the field will be the weakest in several years with Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Alice Marble, second and third ranking stars of the country, both out of competition. Mrs. Moody still is suffering from the misplaced vertebrae which forced her to default to Miss Jacobs in the final last year and Miss Marble is in California recuperating from an attack of pleurisy.

Jack Hayes Suffers Bad Hand Injury

CHICAGO, July 5.—(AP) Jack Hayes, White Sox second baseman, will be out of the lineup at least a month due to a fractured thumb suffered in his throwing hand in yesterday's double-header with St. Louis, an X-ray examination revealed today.

Hayes returned to the Sox hospital Sunday and had played only four games following an operation for removal of a chipped bone from his elbow which had kept him on the sidelines since May 10.

HELEN JACOBS ENTERS FINALS AT WIMBLEDON

By Gayle Talbot.

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 5.—(AP) Helen Hull Jacobs, United States champion, and Grace G. Lott and Lester Stoenf, American doubles titlists, today kept the Stars and Stripes flying in the All-England tennis championship.

Miss Jacobs, matched against an old-fashioned girl who wore long skirts and tied a big bow in the back, Joan Ivan of Australia, won, 6-2, 6-1.

Lott and Stoenf, showing vastly improved form over their previous appearances, polished off the young German team of Hans Denker and H. Henkel, 6-1, 13-11, 6-3, to enter the semi-finals of men's doubles.

SAD DAY.

Otherwise, it was a day when it was rather sad for the invaders. Miss Jacobs and Sarah Palfrey, former Holders of the American doubles title, were eliminated in the quarter-finals of women's doubles, Miss Palfrey and Lott were put out of mixed play and Sidney B. Wood Jr. and Richard Norris Williams, American Davis cup captain, lost out in men's doubles.

Some of the sting was taken from the defeat of Miss Jacobs and Miss Palfrey as Dorothy Andrus, of Stamford, formed half of the team which put them out, 6-3, 6-1, 6-1.

Her partner was Mme. Jung Henrotin, of France.

On American representative strength remained in the other semi-final of women's doubles, Elizabeth Ryan, the former Californian, advancing with her French partner and co-champion, Mme. Rene Matheu. The defeat of Miss Palfrey and Lott left the United States without a representative in mixed play.

Miss Jacobs won with such ease over Miss Hartigan, who appeared to be taken with stage fright on her first appearance on Wimledon's famous center court, that enthusiastic supporters predicted an easy victory over the other finalist, Dorothy McGraw and Hildebrand. Time of game, 1:40.

BARELY WINS.

Miss Round, barely working out a victory over Lott, 6-3, 6-1, 6-7, 6-4, 6-2, 6-1, faced a seasoned veteran in the 11th, 12th and 13th games of many an international tennis war. It was Mme. Matheu who put them out, 6-3, 6-1, 6-1.

The other four qualifiers, selected on comparative times basis, and their marks were: Barthels, 22:43.8; Boals, 23:20.8; Donald Woodward, Columbus, Ohio, competitive, unattached, 23:25.6; and Donald Goulding, Detroit A. C., 23:29.6.

NEW YORK. July 5.—(AP)—All classes of loans showed further firming tendencies in today's bond market, although trading was quiet and price improvements generally confined to a fractional range.

Total transfers of $8,362,000, par value, about equalled Tuesday's aggregate. The Standard Statistics Co. average for 60 domestic corporate issues advanced two-tenths of a point to 86.4.

Followers of the secondary group apparently felt a little more hopeful after their Fourth of July holiday and most of the activity was centered on the lower and medium-priced loans which recently have encountered profit-taking resistance. Prime investment bonds did little or nothing.

Among the leading gainers of fractions to around 2 points were some issues of Santa Fe, Burlington, Good-year, Inland Steel, International Telephone, Lehigh Valley, Louisville & Nashville, New York Central, Otis Steel, Philadelphia Reading Coal & Iron, Southern Railway and Utilities Power and Light.

In the United States government division home loan, federal farm mortgage and most of the treasuries held advances of 1-32nd to 8-32nds of a point. Treasury 3 1/8s of 1946-49 were up 3-32nds to a new high for the year.

A rally of 1 to around 2 points in German dollar obligations was about the only feature of the foreign list.

CHICAGO, July 5.—(AP)—Stimulated by unlocked-for strength of the Liverpool wheat market, wheat prices in Chicago scored substantial gains today.

Broadening of inquiry for flour in the United States accompanied the upward trend of wheat. Liverpool dispatches asserted 3 cents a bushel rise there in wheat prices the last 48 hours had been due chiefly to the fact that large quantities of Argentine wheat were being shipped to inferior quality to be delivered on contracts.

Wheat in Chicago rose a maximum of 2 cents, closing unsettled 11-4 to 13-4 above Tuesday's finish, corn unchanged to 1-4 higher, oats 1-8 to 1-4 up, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to an advance of 5 cents.

Rejection of Argentine wheat at Liverpool raised pointed questions as to how great a total of British stocks of wheat had been put out of condition because of extremely high temperatures abroad.

Although profit-taking sales at the last wiped out part of the advance of wheat in Chicago, the market maintained a strong undertone, and at no time displayed weakness.

Rejection of Argentine wheat at Liverpool raised pointed questions as to how great a total of British stocks of wheat had been put out of condition because of extremely high temperatures abroad.

Wheat was depressed at times more than a cent a bushel by good rains over much of the corn belt and by forecasts of additional moisture. Oats traders took their cue mainly from action of corn.

Provisions averaged about steady in the absence of any unusual pressure to sell.

TODAY'S SHORT STORY CONFESION

Jim Matthews Loped Marie, His Wife, With Rare Devotion, But a Diamond Ring Stirred Fires of Jealousy.

By FLORIA HOWE BRUESS

Jim Matthews let himself down heavily on the park bench. He must think this out before he went home. Before he confronted his wife, Marie, with her—her—

Slowly Jim's big fist clenched. He felt the sharp prick of the diamond he still held and opened his hand. The ring had been set in a setting so caught and mingled in blinding points, the faceted jewel in its platinum setting.

Jim's lips were a tight gray line across his bloodless face. His eyes were like slate, hard, almost colorless as he stared down at the ring. In the past hour he had aged. Looked more like an than 30. A month ago Marie had shown him this ring:

"Look, Jim. I bought it at the 5 and 10. It's only glass, of course, but doesn't it sparkle? Silver looks a lot like platinum, doesn't it?"

Poor kid. If she couldn't have the real thing she'd kick out of a piece of glass and cheap.

Then then that Jim had made up his mind to buy Marie a real diamond ring. He would take a part of their savings—he was sure of his job. The plant would always need a night watchman. Poor kid. She didn't have any fun. He could never take her out in the evenings, and most of the day he slept. A fellow had to sleep when he worked all night.

Life wasn't so hot for Marie. But she had never complained. Had always been gay and happy, singing as she did her work in the little flat.

You bet. The kid was going to have a real diamond. Wouldn't she be surprised!

That morning he had slipped the glass and metal ring in his pocket. Had taken it from the little box Marie kept it in while she washed the breakfast dishes. He would have to use it to get her finger-size.

How he had planned this surprise for her!

"Come here, kid. Close your eyes. Tight. Hold out your hand. Now—"

A bitter, harsh and broken sob shook Jim. A man seated on an opposite bench looked uneasily at him, then rose and slouched down the path.

An hour ago Jim had gone into a jeweler's. "I want a platinum setting diamond ring. The best you can give me for 100 bucks. This is the size." Sheepishly he laid Marie's—as he thought then—cheap little ring, on the counter.

The jeweler picked it up, examined it.

"I can't give you anything as good as this for a hundred. This is a perfect stone, about a half-carat, I'd say."

Speechless, Jim stared at him.

"That's a good diamond," he managed to say, after a pause.

"Very good, indeed." The man picked up his measuring stick. "Size six

But Jim caught up the ring and strode from the shop. Three other jeweler's corroborated the first man's statement.

"Where did she get it?" Jim stared at the jewel. His eyes were becoming bloodshot. Who gave Marie this diamond and why? "I'll find out the name of the man and—." Slowly his fists closed. Some man's neck was between his hot hands.

Jim caught a west-bound express.

Half an hour later he went softly up

Bryan Challenges Foe To Run for Senate

LINCOLN, Neb., July 5.—(AP)—Governor Charles W. Bryan hurled a "public challenge" today at Arthur F. Mullen, leader of another faction of the democratic party in Nebraska, "to make good his threat to me personally and to the democratic primary for United States senator."

Bryan already is a candidate for the senatorial nomination.

At Washington, Mullen said he would be in the Nebraska political race this summer, not as a candidate but as an active opponent of Governor Bryan.

Bryan is absolutely unqualifiedly opposed to Bryan for the senatorial office," Mullen declared, "and Bryan will not be senator from Nebraska."

"I am going to campaign against him by radio and every other way to run him completely out of Nebraska politics. And when I get to the big league and tried to have the pitcher's mound leveled because it made him dizzy throwing from such a height."

John Dillinger Badly Crippled, Convict Claims

INDIANAPOLIS, July 5.—(AP)—John Dillinger, said an unnamed ex-con who came home yesterday from state prison, where he knew Dillinger was quoted as having told police he learned of the arch criminal's escape from the federal penitentiary in Chicago several weeks ago.

Dillinger's right leg trembles, his gun hand is twitchy as though palsied and the injury gradually is affecting his entire right side, according to the parolee man's story as related by the man, who is in no strain of great excitement, however. Dillinger is able to move rapidly, the man said.

The informant, said by the Star to have been released a few months ago from state prison, where he knew Dillinger was quoted as having told police he learned of the arch criminal's escape from the federal penitentiary in Chicago several weeks ago.

Dillinger's right leg trembles, his gun hand is twitchy as though palsied and the injury gradually is affecting his entire right side, according to the parolee man's story as related by the man, who is in no strain of great excitement, however. Dillinger is able to move rapidly, the man said.

The Star said it had consulted a medical authority who believed that extreme excitement would give man in such condition almost normal control of his physical members.

Particular significance was attached to the report Dillinger no longer drives an automobile, since police who have encountered him declare his skill at the wheel is almost unbelievable. Frequently he has outdistanced or outmaneuvered them in traffic.

The only tough gang in the gang, the informant said, is Homer Van Meter, whom he described as "kill crazy," Dillinger, he said, "is yellow" and "if he is alone when police surprise him he'll surrender without a shot."

Mrs. Insull Returns To Side of Husband

CHICAGO, July 5.—(AP)—Mrs. Samuel Insull came home tonight—home to a little three-roomed apartment in a near north side hotel that was a far cry from the magnificent estate of which she was mistress when she left two years ago.

Sprightly and apparently enthused at the reunion with her family, Mrs. Insull came in the train and rode in a taxicab past some of former splendor of the modern apartment hotel, where she met her aged husband, Samuel Insull Sr., and her grandson, "Sammy."

Mrs. Insull and two of her "Sams" came to a private sitting room of the hotel and posed for photographs, then the former Gladys Wallis, of the legitimate stage, chatted with interviewers.

Asked her plans for the future, she replied she had no plans beyond the immediate greeting of her family.

MONTICELLO, Ark., July 5.—(AP)—President Frank Horsfall, anti-Jazz president of Monticello Agricultural College, whose ouster was sought by the board of trustees, has been charged among other things his chapel talks on dancing contained "crude allusions to sex problems." was firmly entrenched in his position today with the backing of the board of trustees.

The board in a lengthy report on its investigation of general charges of immorality and indecency made shame." Horsfall has been head of the school for the past 24 years.

An open investigation was conducted by the board at the suggestion of Governor Futrell, to whom the students several months ago presented a petition, signed by some 200 students, in which a score of charges were made against President Horsfall and John Richardson, of Warren, then a member of the board.

Students testified at the open hearing that President Horsfall in his chapel talks declared he abandoned dancing as a young man when he brought up the "serious" charges of immorality. President Horsfall

Richardson's removal followed an investigation by State Comptroller Grifffin Smith of student charges that the trustees profited in his dealings with the college during his term of office.
